ABSTRACT

This thesis provides the reader with a good synopsis of the tender procedures for public works followed in Greece and Cyprus.

Also, this work depicts a comparative evaluation between Greece and Cyprus concerning the tender procedure for public works followed by the two countries. By studying the national legislation and reviewing the literature of the last ten years similarities and differences have emerged in the applicable methods.

The similarities between the two countries mainly consist similar way of public procurement underlined by the European Union Directives. Whereas the main differences concern the documents required for valid participation in the procurement process.
