ABSTRACT

Public contracts concerning public constructions, provisions, studies are set by European and national legislation. They consist of an important part of the development and improvement of the quality of the wellbeing of the citizens. The legislation that applies in the construction field for public contracts was the law 4412/2016, in force on the 8/8/2016 which intended to incorporate the European guides 2014/24/EE and 2014/25/EE.

The new law 4782/2021 that was published on the 9/3/2021, aimed at simplifying, clarifying, and modifying decisive directions that would make the procedure of awarding and managing a public contract. This dissertation aims at analyzing all these modifications, describing each article, the awarding, the management, and the delivery of the construction project.

Therefore, a bibliographic search and a collection of publications concerning public contracts, the legislation, and generally the construction field, was performed through VosViewer software. This software, creates bibliometric networks with the form of maps which visualized the association between terms revealing the strength of their union, through bibliographic maps during the visualization of the basic facts of the software. The connections reveal the interaction between the public contracts, the construction works and the legislation.
